WORD HAS IT...From Your Library

Review submitted by Donna Gilson

"The Woman Who Walked Into Doors" by Roddy Doyle: This story is a realistic and poignant tale of Paula Spencer and her family in working class Dublin in the 1970's. She is a victim of domestic abuse, she uses drugs and alcohol to numb her experience, she feels she is the only person to suffer her fate. The title of this book is a euphemism. It's what Paula and thousands of women like her say to their friends to cover their black-eyes and bloodied, broken noses. The writer succeeds in painting a shockingly realistic portrayal of a relatively unassuming wife who has gotten herself trapped in a violent and abusive relationship. Doyle does an excellent job of telling her story in the first person, in a forthright and even funny way. She becomes very real; the troubles of her marriage and children become very real as the characters are vividly brought to life. The writer makes the reader feel the tears, hear the music and even taste the Guinness page after page. Paula becomes a widow, forcing her to confront her demons. Her children have been affected by the dysfunctional behaviors of both parents. She begins to make amends to them in her simplistic way. Doyle received many positive accolades from reviewers and his peers on this well written book.

Around The Club

The Saturday Afternoon Gang

If you have Saturday afternoons free and you want great company, then head over to the WSIA's pub. A crowd of approximately 30 men and women gather there with bartender Annie O'Donnell, aka the "Drink Goddess", to watch games on the large screen television and socialize. Football, baseball, soccer or anything else that is filmed on a playing field is a big part of the afternoon, but friendships are made & the craic is good. Some bring snacks, but most just show up. Everyone is welcome, so if you are not doing anything on Saturday afternoon, join them. You won't be sorry.

Christmas 2011

This feat was accomplished with the help of Carol & Steve Andrews, Kay & Dick Bowman, Nancy Csorey, Mary Catherine Falle, Jack Flynn, Eileen & Mary Ann McNeela, Maureen Lavelle, John Maloney, John O'Brien and Jeanne Strok. Again, A Great BIG THANKS!

LEARN TO PLAY "25"!!!!

Perhaps you've seen our articles about our semi-annual card drives and would like to learn to play. Well after dinner stick around and learn to play the game from some real experts. On Friday nights there's always a game going on (start time approximately 8 p.m.) and the seasoned players would love to pass along this tradition to any interested member.
